

BWXT Completes Acquisition of L3Harris' A.O.T. Business

January 6, 2025

JONESBOROUGH, Tenn.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 6, 2025-- BWX Technologies, Inc. (NYSE: BWXT) announced today that it has successfully completed its acquisition of L3Harris' Aerojet Ordnance Tennessee, Inc. (A.O.T.) business as of January 3, 2025.

"The addition of A.O.T. to BWXT's Nuclear Operations Group underscores our commitment to enhancing and growing our special materials portfolio to better serve our customers," said Rex D. Geveden, BWXT president and chief executive officer. "We are thrilled to welcome this talented team to BWXT and look forward to the important contributions they will make to our mission of ensuring national security."

A.O.T. is a leading provider of advanced specialty materials, fabrication and high-strength alloy manufacturing. It is the sole provider of depleted uranium to the U.S. government and produces other specialized materials, including tungsten, molybdenum, tantalum, rhenium, titanium, nickel, aluminum, copper, metal-matrix composites, metal polymer composites, reactive materials and custom alloys. The acquired business will operate within BWXT's government operations segment.

Forward-Looking Statements

BWXT cautions that this release contains forward-looking statements, including, without limitation, statements relating to management's plans and expectations for the acquisition of A.O.T., our ability to realize the anticipated benefits, future revenues and demand for A.O.T. business, and A.O.T.'s continuing operations. These forward-looking statements are based on management's current expectations and involve a number of risks and uncertainties, including, among other things, our ability to integrate A.O.T.'s operations into the Company and competition in the market for A.O.T. products.
